2 Hour Class

In this workshop, we will create a beautiful, stitched butterfly in four-drop peyote stitch. Topics covered will include, starting, reading the pattern, finishing and adapting the design, and tips on designing other patterns in four-drop peyote. We will also demo adding thread and share ideas for finishing the design.

Abbreviations used in this text include:

A - John Bead Miyuki Delica Chalk White

B - John Bead Miyuki Delica Galvanized Silver

C - John Bead Miyuki Delica Cranberry Red

D - John Bead Miyuki Delica Silver-Lined Gold

E - John Bead Miyuki Delica Opaque Black

Step 1

Cut a comfortable length of working thread and thread a size #12 beading needle. String (32)A, leaving a 10" tail.

Step 2

Using even-count peyote stitch technique, working with sets of four beads per stitch, string (4)A. Skip the last (4)A strung in Step 1. Go through the next (4)A.

{String (4)A, skip the next (4)A and go through the next (4)A} three times. Pull the working and tail threads apart to tighten after each addition.

Step 3

At this step, there will now be "up" beads to go through. {String (4)A. Go through the next (4)A, the up beads} four times.

Repeat Step 3 for 25 rows. At row 26, begin following the word chart pattern. The word chart has been formatted to read in groups of four beads as they are strung and added.

It is easy to modify the length of this design by adding or removing rows from both the beginning and end of the bracelet. As charted herein, 25 rows of plain white precede and append the patterned rows.

Step 4

Adding thread is easiest if you leave your exiting, working thread in place. Bring in a new strand by following the thread path through several rows, changing direction a few times to lock in the new thread. Weave to exit from the position of your old working thread. Build new rows from that point with the new working thread. After you have created several rows, weave the old working thread up into the new rows and trim.

Step 5 Finishing

This design can become many things. It can be stitched to a felt backing to become a bookmark.

It can become a bracelet with some added length, by adding more rows of chalk white to the beginning and ending of the design. For an idea finishing as a bracelet with a clasp, check out the ending of this class.

This design can become a necklace. Start it by building three rows of chalk white, then skip ahead to row 26 and build the butterfly. Remove the first three rows of chalk white. Stitch over a small, closed jump ring at the top right and left of the wings. Attach some chain to the jump rings.
